The Gas Question.

[Portsmouth (Ohio) Times.]

The special committee appointed by council to arrange for a new contract with the Portsmouth Gaslight Company, have had two meetings with representatives of the gas company, the last meeting being held at three P. M. on Wednesday at the council chamber. The old contract expired on the 1st instant; it was $27 per foot, and $2.50 per thousand for private consumers.

On the part of the gas company the general desire is for a ten year contract, and it is understood that the company is willing to agree upon eight years at $25 per foot and $2 per thousand to consumers, with the provision that if, in the meantime, the Portsmouth Electric Light Company, or the Natural Gas Company, agree to light the street lamps for a less sum, within that time, the gas company is to have the privilege of reducing their price to such sum as may be offered by either of the two prospective lighting companies, if they are not willing to light, as cheaply as the contract, as for the street lamps are concerned, is to be sold and of no effect.

At the first meeting between the committee and representatives of the gas company, the latter presented quite an array of prices paid by similar corporations as Mayville, Ripley, Hadfield, and towns of that size, in which the prices ruled higher than here, but as these towns do not approximate in size to the city of Portsmouth, we learn that the committee were unwilling to be influenced by these rose-colored figures.

On the other hand the committee began a correspondence with cities of the second class and found they were getting better figures than Portsmouth.

At the last conference which, as we have said, was held last Wednesday afternoon, the committee met the gas company with reports from such cities as Chillicothe, Zanesville, Youngstown, Canton and others.

Chillicothe has but 129 gas lamps, for which it pays but $25 per foot and $2 less than here. Consumers pay $2.25 per thousand—the same as here—and this contract will expire March 1, 1885, and it is not likely that the city will renew the contract.

Zanesville has 490 gas lamps and pays but $14.50 per foot and consumers are charged but $1.40 per thousand.

Youngstown pays $18 each per annum on its 284 gas lamps, while the citizens pay but $1.20 per foot. Canton, with a less number of gas lamps than Portsmouth, pays but $18 per foot, to Portsmouth's $27, while the price paid by private consumers is the same as here—$2.25. Canton, however, pays but $2 for gas consumed in city buildings.

Mr. Stanton, at the council meeting last Wednesday night, briefly recited a portion of the facts we have mentioned above, and stated that the committee was unanimous for a five years' contract and no longer. He stated that there were continual improvements going on in artificial lights, and he opposed any longer and less. The Portsmouth Electric Light Company, he understood, had a proposition to make. The gas company, if it enters into a contract, was willing to cancel any contract if the Electric Light Company would light the street lamps any cheaper, provided it were permitted to compete, and amend its contract to the same price.

The little towns that the conference may result in a five years' contract with the Gas Company, at probably $25 per foot for each street lamp, and $2 per thousand for private consumers.

We doubt if this is low enough for consumers, taking in consideration the prospect of low prices that prevails, and low prices paid for fuel, and for all other common labor products, and $1.75 per foot is the very lowest price that could be paid, and it is not likely that there will be as low as this in manufacturing business generally. It is extremely problematical, anyhow, whether the reduced price of gas will materially reduce gas bills, if indeed it reduces them at all. This article may slightly anticipate the result, but it has been carefully compiled, and with difficulty, for the committee has refused to be interviewed and the gas company never told anything out of school, but it is, the main, correct.

This series of meetings began at the First Presbyterian Church in this city on Thursday evening the 22nd inst., conducted by Rev. W. C. Condit, of Ashland, Ky., closed Sunday the 25th inst. A most interesting feature of these meetings was the lecture on the Jewish Tabernacle, delivered by Mr. Condit on Sunday afternoon. The audience assembled to hear this lecture, composed of members, not only of the Presbyterian congregation, but of representatives from the membership of the various religious denominations in the city, filled the church to its utmost capacity. The lecturer fully possessed of his subject, entertained his audience for an hour or longer discoursing to them upon the plan of construction of the tabernacle and the nature and mode of its religious exercises. The lecture throughout was illustrated by a model most artistically and accurately prepared by Mr. Condit. At its close all who were present had an understanding and appreciation of the Jewish house of sacrifice and worship from its gateway unto the mercy seat, not before experienced. A more perfect elucidation of the typical significance of the tabernacle in its various appointments has rarely been witnessed. It is to be hoped that many christian congregations will avail themselves of the benefit of this highly entertaining and instructive lecture.

The flood of 1832 occurred in February, and reached its highest point, sixty-four feet and three inches, at Cincinnati, on the 18th. The next high water in February was in 1853, when the marks stood fifty-five feet and six inches on the 17th. In 1881, February 16th, the marks showed fifty feet seven inches; February 21, 1882, fifty-eight feet seven inches; February 15, 1883, sixty-six feet and four inches; February 14th, 1884, seventy-one feet and three-fourths inches. The highest point in 1884 was reached at twelve o'clock, and in 1883 at five o'clock, a.m. In 1884, when the water receded, it fell one-fourth of an inch in about five hours.

BELLIGERENT BOOMERS

THE HOSTILE CAMPS READY FOR THE COMING FRAY.

The Oklahomans Behind Their Earthworks.
Col. Hatch Concentrating Troops—A Battle Imminent—Colonel Troops Against Ex-Union Soldiers.

CALDWELL, Kan., Jan. 28.—A man from Couch's camp says it is located about half way between the Stillwater and the Cimarron rivers. Couch's men are continually throwing up breastworks, and have dug pits so that they can move about without being seen. It is asserted here that nothing short of bloodshed will eject them. A great many cattle men who are connected with syndicates reside or are wintering here. They of course oppose the settlers. They say this winter has been the most severe on cattle of any for many previous years. On one ranch out of 1,500 head 2,000 have died. In other large herds the proportion of those dying is even greater. Lieut. Palmer arrived from Fort Riley Monday evening and related Lieut. Jackson, who was left here by Col. Hatch as assistant quartermaster. Chief Quartermaster Gills has arrived from Leavenworth.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Jan. 28.—The two armed camps of Gen. Hatch and Gen. Couch, the boomer leader, lie within about nine miles of one another, with the possibility of a collision at any hour. It is learned that fifteen companies of infantry have reached Gen. Hatch from Fort Reno and that he had moved his camp nearer that of the boomers. The latter have supplies to last at least thirty days, and so cannot be starved out in less than that time. They will resist capture at any cost. A large amount of fire, overcoats, army stoves and hats arrived from St. Louis by express at Caldwell Monday morning for the soldiers. More troops are on their way from Fort Leavenworth and Riley.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 28.—Gen. Hatch has no building job before him. The 600 men now encamped in the coveted territory have made up their minds to stick, and they are not likely to make any sudden change. They have been wonderfully active during the few days in preparing to receive Gen. Hatch. They are determined and belligerent and show all the symptoms of a fight. Capt. Couch, who has succeeded to Capt. Payne, is a well-to-do and successful farmer of Butler county, Kan. He has been under fire and has seen service, and has a great deal of the boomers. He is a quiet, determined man, temperate in his habits, free from all bluster, but solid, independent and full of his movements. He is an entirely different character from Payne, and that is where the danger comes in.

The boomers know all about the movements of the troops. They have scouts out constantly, and the entire boomer sympathies with them. They know there have been companies of troops now held in readiness at different posts to be forwarded to this seat of war.

The troops are stationed as follows: Four companies of infantry at Fort Leavenworth; one at Fort Gibson, Indian territory; four at Fort Lyon, Colorado; three at Fort Union, New Mexico; one at Fort Reno, Indian territory; three at Fort Wingate, New Mexico, and three troops of cavalry at Fort Riley. With the exception of the troops in New Mexico the balance can be concentrated near the boomers' camp in forty-eight hours.

The colonists are fully posted and are fully prepared as possible. They have thrown up breastworks, dug rifle pits and built a sort of fort for their headquarters, and are prepared to stand up to General Hatch's army in any event. It has been the general impression that they would not fight, as they have been driven out so often. There has, however, been no legal justification of the case until a few months ago, when a trial was forced and Judge Foster decided that the going upon the lands was not a criminal act. This has greatly emboldened the boomers, and they now think that the action of the troops is oppressive and tyrannical, and that they are not legally as proscribed as the course of the revolutionary factors in resisting the British at Bunker's.

The country is well timbered along the streams, and the lands are rich in possibilities for agriculture and cattle raising. It is a goodly land. The boomers are not afraid of the movements of the troops, but a majority of the raiders do not really think the secretary of war will allow General Hatch to turn his colored troops loose upon ex-Union soldiers of the union army.

He Walked Into Their Arms.
CINCINNATI, Jan. 28.—While Detectives White and Kustman were walking down Central avenue, they ran plump into James Chumley, who jumped his head here some time since, while awaiting trial on an indictment for murder in the second degree. He was arrested and taken to Central police station, and afterward turned over to Sheriff Berford, who locked him up in the county jail. Chumley became involved in a quarrel with Charlie Lamb, three years ago, which culminated in Chumley shooting Lamb dead.

He was indicted for murder in the second degree, and released on bond. When his case was called for trial he was not in court, and his bond was declared forfeited. He was next heard from as being in the Chicago jail, about two months ago, when the Cincinnati authorities were informed that they could have the outlaw by sending for him. The county commissioners refused to appropriate the necessary funds and the case was dropped.

Mr. Cleveland's New York Visit.
ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 28.—President-elect Cleveland is making arrangements for a visit to New York, and, while no date has been fixed for his departure, it is understood that he will leave here this week. The announcement that he will be a guest of the Fifth Avenue Hotel is rather premature, as no definite arrangements have yet been made in that direction. There has been a very determined effort on the part of some of the friends of Mr. Cleveland and the hotel management to secure his coming to the Fifth Avenue Hotel his headquarters. Republican friends and visitors for that high office have invariably stopped at this hotel, and, naturally, its managers are very anxious to keep up the succession.

The G. A. R. Encampment at Akron.
AKRON, O., Jan. 28.—Department Commander H. F. Floyd and staff of Cleveland, has arrived and delegates are coming on every train for the state encampment. G. A. R., opening. The women's relief corps of Ohio is also in convention. The annual report shows 30,000 members of the G. A. R. in Ohio, an increase of 5,000 since last year.
